

THE NATURE EXISTS

When our dearest throw away their toys, their parents leave them where it is easiest for them. Unconscious parents are not even aware that they are making two big mistakes. Firstly they pollute the nature, and the second one is more dangerous than the first one: when they throw away the toys near the lake or rivers they are risking the lives of their or other children. Hence, the children often try to reach the toys near the coast and can drown in doing so.
